

Proudly Presents:

Mass Casualty Preparedness for Crime Scene

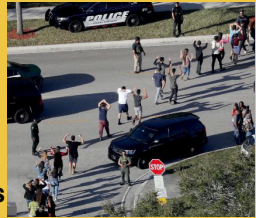

This 3-day class hosted by the Ocoee, Florida Police Department is scheduled for January 28th thru January 30th, 2025, from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Class will meet at 125 N. Lakeshore Drive, Ocoee, Florida 34761

The cost of this 3-day class is just $479.00 if you use promo code OC25 when checking out.

The class begins with 3 case studies followed by round table discussions, and several other hands-on exercises providing information on techniques available to pool, coordinate, and control resources from multiple agencies. On day 3 the class will respond to a mock mass casualty exercise putting to use the information gained on day 1 and 2. Students will learn the benefits of using span of control when managing a large scale scene.

Sergeant Joe Torok, retired from the Broward County Sheriff's Office, Crime Scene Unit, led his Unit in three internationally known mass casualty incidents. Each of those was educational, specific to the way crime scene should respond and work the scenes.

This class allows attendees to gain invaluable information such as:

- How to organize the response of multiple crime scene resources
- Techniques for keeping track of resources, used and available
- Ideas on ways to expedite processing time frames
- What to expect from Command Staff, politicians, and Attorneys
- Keeping your personnel safe, physically and mentally
- How to work with other agencies, even if you are Accredited
- What Federal resources can provide for you
- What to expect long term in a criminal Mass Casualty Incident prosecution

It is unfortunately not a matter of if, but when this will happen in your area. Visit www.csiforensicfoundations.com or scan the QR code on the bottom left corner of this page to learn more about the class, the instructor, and to register for this valuable and informative class.
